Latest Developments in Strife-Torn Ireland

Refugees from Belfast, Ireland, where a veritable reign of terror has prevailed for months past, reaching Dublin, where they were housed and fed at the Kildare Street Club and afterward transferred to Marlborough Hall, the headquarters of the Free State Army.

Part of fifty-seven Sinn Fein prisoners from the County Fermanagh, Ireland, who were captured in a general roundup, arriving in Belfast, handcuffed in pairs. They were driven in motor lorries and police vans to the Crumlin Road Jail under guards who were heavily armed. Although the Ulster leaders and the heads of the Provisional Government are conducting negotiations looking toward peace, shootings and killings are of daily occurrence.

AMERICAN DEAD IN FRANCE REMEMBERED ON MEMORIAL DAY

That France has not forgotten the aid that came from America in her extremity was shown by the ceremonies held throughout the republic on Memorial Day in honor of the American dead. A great throng assembled in the cross-marked cemetery of Suresnes, where thousands of American boys lie buried. Stirring addresses were made by Marshal Foch and American Ambassador Myron T. Herrick.

(Keystone View Co.)

CALIFORNIA has been recently holding many commemorations of the founding of the State and the inrush of the gold-seekers of 1849 and later. A significant event was the unveiling of the memorial stone in the oldest cemetery of the State in honor of the pioneers. At left of monument is seen Mrs. Ruth Durfee Wyne, descendant of one of the oldest American families in the West, and at the right Miss Mildred Yoba, scion of one of the most ancient Spanish families.—The commencement exercises of New York University were held on the campus, where participants and spectators could enjoy the cooling breezes from the Hudson.—Columbia honored herself as well as the recipient of the degree when she conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws on Paderewski, eminent not only as a great virtuoso, but as the President of Poland in one of the most critical phases of her history.—Great throngs attended the Memorial Day services at Suresnes, France, where thousands of Americans lie buried, and similar exercises were held at cemeteries in all parts of France.—One of the most violent storms that has ever visited New York and vicinity swept over the metropolitan district June 11. Beaches and resorts were crowded with merrymakers. Over forty were reported to have been drowned or killed.—Eminently adapted for the needs of the fair sex who are fond of golfing is the clever contrivance which permits one to carry in her golf bag not only the necessary accoutrement of sticks and balls, but also a number of other things contributory to feminine comfort and peace of mind.—The commencement exercises at Columbia this year were among the most notable in the university's history. Thousands returned to join in the Class Day activities and renew the days of their youth and dreams.

Rough plays are at times inseparable from the game, but few display so much action as shown in this stirring mixup at the plate. Winning of English Derby Before 100,000 Spectators

ENGLAND'S great blue ribbon classic, the Derby, and a stake estimated at $100,000, fell to Captain Cuttle, here shown leading his field, the three-year-old colt belonging to Lord Woolavington. The winner was piloted by the veteran jockey, Steve Donoghue, who wrested the rich prize for the fourth time from a field of thirty of the finest thoroughbreds in training. Although the odds were 10 to 1 against Captain Cuttle he galloped home eight lengths ahead of the public favorites, Pondoland and St. Louis, covering the distance in 2 minutes 34 3-5 seconds, which, while faster than the Derby has been run in the last three years, falls a little short of the record. Viscount Astor's Tamar finished second and B. Walker's Craighower finished third. Over 100,000 spectators sweltered in the fierce heat to see this 139th annual running of the Derby.

SUPER-REGENERATIVE CIRCUIT

This latest invention marks a startling advance in the science of radio. It amplifies the sounds received by the ordinary radio set 100,000 times, and also eliminates the use of outside aerials. It has but three vacuum tubes, yet gives the same result as an ordinary receiving set would give that had nine tubes. It is the invention of Major Edward A. Armstrong, who recently demonstrated its working before an engineering society in New York City.

MACHINE THAT PHOTOGRAPHS RADIO WAVES

This machine, called the Oscillograph, either photographs currents produced in radio research work or permits the operator to watch them in action. It utilizes two distortionless amplifying tubes and two power tubes. The loud speaker produces sounds that correspond with the waves being photographed. The lantern projects waves into the device, enabling the operator to observe them.

BRONX ANNUAL BOROUGH DAY PARADE

SPECIAL interest attaches to the recent wedding of Miss Catherine Hughes, daughter of the United States Secretary of State, celebrated at Washington on June 10. A large number of the Diplomatic Corps were present at the ceremony.—The Bronx is one of the most rapidly growing sections of New York, and is justly proud of its development. The annual celebration of its growth has become an event of note in the community.—Despite the discovery of the North and South Poles, the lure of the arctic still draws adventurous souls. The present expedition of Captain Amundsen to the arctic regions will be followed by the best wishes of those who honor courage and intrepidity in the hearts of men.—For eleven years George Burns was a star outfielder on the Giants' team, and has always conducted himself in such a way as to be an honor to the game. now a member, on the Polo Grounds, New York, should be celebrated as "Burns Day." Great enthusiasm greeted his appearance at the bat and in the field.—That men have no longer a monopoly in athletic events is again demonstrated by the picture above of a woman diver in a fancy diving contest. The illusion conveyed is almost that of flying.—There is a constant duel of wits proceeding between law breakers and law enforcers, and an ingenious illustration of this is found in the shoe made after the model of a cow's hoof. The imitation is perfect, and well calculated to deceive any but the keenest of detectives who might be scanning footprints in order to find their way to the moonshiners' lair.—That Hindenburg has lost none of his popularity was evidenced at his recent journey to East Prussia. There were great popular demonstrations in his honor, but the German Government cautiously refrained from giving the visit any official sanction.

BY general consent the West Point Cadets are the most finely drilled body in the world, and that reputation was fully sustained at the recent annual inspection by the Congressional Board of Visitors.—There is pathos in the picture of the crippled men who served their country in the World War, seated in their wheel-chairs and being greeted by President and Mrs. Harding at the recent White House lawn party. The President and his wife were assisted by forty-eight young girls, each representing a State of the Union, who did what they could for the comfort and happiness of the guests of honor.—An event of interest was the recent launching at Camden of a Japanese naval vessel, the Kamoi, constructed by an American firm, the New York Shipbuilding Corporation. of 15 knots an hour, and a capacity for carrying 10,000 tons of oil, with an additional capacity of 2,300 tons of bunker coal. She is the first electrically propelled ship of the imperial navy.—It is quite certain that there was a minor note in the college songs sung for the last time by the girl graduates of Goucher College, who in that way bade farewell to their Alma Mater.—The floating city pictured above would have brought delight to the souls of Bret Harte or Mark Twain, as its characteristics are largely those of the days they pictured so faithfully in their works. There man still works and plays in primitive ways, and the restraints and conventions of civilization are almost as far removed as though on another planet.—The youthful prodigy who at the age of 11 proposes to study law has demonstrated her ability by completing one year at a university, and by helping her father in the compilation of a phonetic dictionary containing more than 64,000 words.

THE ancient and the modern were brought into close proximity recently when an airplane flew over the Pyramids at Gizeh, which have stood, majestic and immutable, for ages on the desert sands near Egypt's capital. Two of the three pyramids that form the group are here visible. All are the tombs of royal and august personages. The Pyramid of Cheops, the largest of the three, covers thirteen acres at the base, is 755 feet 88-10 inches in mean length and 481 feet 4 inches in height. Chephren, the second Pyramid, is 706 feet 3 inches in length, 442 feet high, and the base covers 12 acres. The third pyramid, Mycerinus, is much smaller, being only 634 feet 2 inches long and 215 feet high.

IT TOOK AN EARTHQUAKE TO SAVE HER

There in the palace of the Emperor, helpless, alone, at the mercy of the most wicked, cruel, evil monster the world has ever known—there sat pretty little Marcia, innocent, unspoiled; on all sides, evil leering faces; beyond, the palace guards. And by her side, with outstretched arms the repulsive creature that a freak of Fate had made Ruler of the World.

"I will give you the whole of my Kingdom; everything in the world shall be yours for the asking," he cried.

Trapped in the spider's web, of what avail seemed innocence, truth, faith?

Then came—

THE EARTHQUAKE!

Was it God's answer to the girl's unspoken prayer? Perhaps—

At any rate, it is the one great and stupendous climax to the most sensational and dazzling motion-picture spectacle ever shown upon any screen since time began and Nero fiddled in ancient Rome. It is without doubt or question the most compelling photoplay production ever offered for the consideration of the theatre-going public. Not only a gigantic and triumphant screening of a colossal spectacle, but a love story of supreme self-sacrifice pictured amidst the barbaric splendors of ancient Rome, reproduced in all their glory on the exact spot where Nero mocked, shocked and rocked the world with his wickedness 2,000 years ago.

Ruth Roland Tells How To Have a Rosy—White Complexion

Miss Ruth Roland, the beautiful young actress, attributes much of her success to her wonderful complexion. At a recent interview she said: "Most women can have a beautiful rosy-white complexion if they will devote just a few moments each day in caring for their skin. There is nothing so attractive as a smooth, clear, unwrinkled, rosy complexion, and since it is so easy to acquire it is astonishing why so many girls neglect their skin."

"A woman fifty years old with a skin well cared for looks more youthful and attractive than a woman of thirty whose skin has been neglected. It pays to stay looking young just as long as possible. To-night, before you retire, look in your mirror and study carefully the coloring of your skin, also its texture. Note if any roughness appears, look for coarse pores, blackheads, wrinkles, sallow skin or other imperfections. If you find any of these objectionable defects just remember they may be overcome if you will do what I tell you to."

"After you have taken stock of yourself, then massage your face, hands and arms for a few minutes with a good cold cream (I use Liska because it seems especially adapted to this purpose and it is put up in tubes). Wipe off the cream with a soft cloth. In the morning wash your face with warm water and Derwillo Oatmeal Soap, rinse with cold water and dry thoroughly. Before going out apply Derwillo, that popular beautifier which is now used by discriminating women and girls."

"Then glance in your mirror again and notice how you have improved even after one application of this Derwillo-Liska combination. Derwillo comes in three shades, flesh, white and brunette. It brings a rosy tint to your cheeks and a softness to your neck, hands and arms, and unless you have reached that point where you don't care how you look you will thank me for suggesting this method to you."

Many leading actresses now use Derwillo and Liska cold cream and their judgment should carry great weight with you. If you really want a beautiful complexion try Derwillo and Liska cold cream for one day, and if you are not satisfied in every way it costs you absolutely nothing. They are sold with that understanding at all toilet counters of department stores and druggists.

Youth is Flexible

Action is Free and Joyous
 when the feet are strong and supple!

A swift, spontaneous move! That is the test of youthfulness—and of the soundness of your feet. For, if your feet are hampered by shoes that do not flex, how can you move freely and gracefully and as you should?

Women who wear Cantilevers are inclined to increase their activities. They feel like walking, dancing, swimming and playing golf. Theirs is the joy of spontaneous action. They stay young because they feel young.

The Cantilever Shoe induces the free and natural grace of carriage that diminishes fatigue and increases your youthful vigor. Ask your doctor or take the word of Frederic H. Robinson, editor Medical Review of Reviews, who says "A beautiful carriage is an enviable gift. No young or older woman can ever keep youth in her limbs if she artificially cramps their natural play."

Many other authorities point the way to the Cantilever Shoe. "Feet First—they are the foundation of grace and health," writes Augusta Rucker, M. D., in McCall's Magazine. Dr. Rucker recommends a flexible shank shoe, like the Cantilever.

You will like Cantilevers. The curved arch of Cantilevers is flexible like the arch of your foot. They have the smart medium heel and trim rounded toe of fashion. They are made for the woman who does not wish to sacrifice good looks for comfort. In Cantilevers you get both.

All Cantilever Shoes are trademarked for your protection. They are made of fine materials by workers who have received years of careful training in making a flexible arch shoe. Prices are reasonable. When you buy shoes be sure you are at a Cantilever dealer's. Except in New York City there is only one dealer in each town.

Cantilevers are sold everywhere. Read the list of dealers at the left. If you do not find one in your town, write the manufacturers, Morse & Burt Co., 11 Carlton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., for the name of a nearby dealer.
